

SHADOXHURST

The parish war memorial is in the form of a church clock. This is disappointing because none of the men's names are recorded...

1. -----
2. Peumonia Septic (Cardiac Failure) 4 days

Death registered by his wife T.F.J Hart of Water Villa, Water Lane, Egerton, Ashford, Kent 21st July 1919.

Before the outbreak of war Sydney was employed in the Ashford area as a Coach Joiner and Wheelwright.

Enlisted into the Royal Naval Air Service (RNAS) 13 September 1916 for the duration of the war and went to HMS Pembroke Chatham for basic training. On 23 February 1917 Sydney was sent to HMS Daedalus at this time he was still serving in the RNAS. Later in 1917 he went to RFC Cranwell (27 Wing) for specialist air mechanic training.

In April 1917 Sydney was promoted to 1st Class Air Mechanic (Royal Naval Air Service). On 6 July 1918 Sydney was posted to 27 Wing, Royal Air Force at RAF Cranwell. On 10 July 1918 Sydney was promoted to Sergeant in the newly formed Royal Air Force (RAF).

When Sydney was discharged from the Royal Air Force his home address was recorded as –

Water Villa
Water Lane
EGERTON
Ashford
Kent

On 10 May 1919 Sydney was examined by a RAF medical officer and his service papers state – A1 fit. He was there still serving at this date. He appears to have died only 2 months later following discharge!

National Archives lists him as a RN man –

F20626 Sydney Charles HART. RN. Born Ashford (Kent). REF: ADM188/601 . 03 January 1893.

Sydney's name was referred to in the Kentish Express as being an Shadoxhurst man who lost his life in the Great War. Then we found his name on the now lost Tunbridge Wells Equitable Friendly Society war memorial. This used to hang in the branch office in Regents Place (now demolished).
